Every 69 seconds
a young person reaches out to Kids Helpline.

No matter how big or small the problem, your support means we are there. To listen, understand and encourage on everyday topics to serious issues of child abuse, bullying, mental health, self-harm, suicide as well as alcohol and drug use.

But reaching out for help is a huge step for many young people. They've told us that often they feel like the issues they are facing are not serious enough. Shame and stigma leave them believing they are 'soft' or 'can't hack it', or that they are alone with their problems.

That's why yourtown is focused on setting a new standard for supporting young people in ways that work for them. When a young person makes that difficult decision to reach out, we aim to break down the barriers to getting the help they need.

Together we can expand the ways young people can reach us, increase our services, and meet young people where they are when they need us.
